DETAILED ACTION

1. This Office Action is the answer to the telephone interview on 4/06/2005.
2. Claims 280-299 were pending in this application.

Response to Amendment

3. The examiner submits that above pending claims are fundamental and obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention with cited art of Stefik (US Pat. 5,715,403), and Krishnan et al. (US Pat. 6,073,124).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraph of 35 U.S.C. § 102 in view of the AIPA and H.R. 2215 that forms the basis for the rejections under this section made in the attached Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

35 U.S.C. § 102(e), as revised by the AIPA and H.R. 2215, applies to all qualifying references, except when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. For such patents, the prior art date is determined under 35 U.S.C. § 102(e) as it existed prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. § 102(e)).

4. Claims 280-281, 283, 284, 288, 290-291, 293, 294, and 298 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 102(e) as being anticipate by Krishnan et al. (US Pat. 6,073,124).

Art Unit 3661

A. Re. to claims 280, 290: Krishnan et al. suggest steps for a server to provide to a client computer a digital license of right(s) to render digital content, the digital content encrypted with a decryption key, comprising:

- receiving a license request including a decryption key (see Krishnan et al., Fig.4 - ref. 402, Fig. 3 - refs. 31, and 310 - ELC, and Fig.9 box 909 shows an obvious task of decrypting the received ELC); then
- generating a license response including a digital rights license, the decryption key, and a certificate; and transmitting that response to the client (see Krishnan et al., Fig.19 refs. 1902-1903).

B. Re. to claims 281, 291: The rationales and reference for rejection of claim 280 are incorporated.

The examiner respectfully submits that a license request of Krishnan et al. inherently include answers for what, when, where, how about said request; i.e., a request of a content identifier, and a list of requested rights, and a server generates a license having those requested rights (see Krishnan et al., Fig.4 - ref. 402, Fig. 3 - refs. 31, and 310 - ELC, and Fig.9 shows an obvious task of decrypting 909 the received ELC).

Art Unit 3661

C. Re. to claims 283, 293: The rationales and reference for rejection of claim 280 are incorporated.

Krishnan et al. teach about transmitting a response to a client computer as part of an HTML page (see Krishnan et al., 3:24 to 4:9).

D. Re. to claims 284, 294: The rationales and reference for rejection of claim 280 are incorporated.

- Krishnan et al. teach of encrypting the license response; and encoding that response (see Krishnan et al., Fig.6, refs. 601-604).

8. Re. to claims 288, 298: Krishnan et al. teach that a request is contained in an HTTP request (see Krishnan et al., 3:45-61, 7:1-4).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. § 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office Action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 282, 292 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103(a) as being unpatentable over Krishnan et al. (US Pat. 6,073,124).

The rationales and reference for rejection of claim 280 are incorporated.

The examiner respectfully submits that a license request of Krishnan et al. obviously includes a certificate associated with that client computer - in another word, a license is a rights to use software at a specific computer.

6. Claims 285-287, 289, 295-297, and 299 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103(a) as being unpatentable over Krishnan et al. (US Pat. 6,073,124), in view of in view of Stefik (US Pat. 5,715,403).

A. Re. to claims 285, 295: The rationales and reference for rejection of claim 280 are incorporated.

Krishnan et al. teach the license request includes a public key associated with the client computer; Krishnan et al. do not disclose about encrypting a decryption key.

However, Stefik suggests that idea of encrypting a decryption key with the public key to obtain an encrypted decryption key by disclosing: "The requester decrypts the digital certificate using the public key of the master repository, recording the identity of the supplier and creator, a key for decrypting the software, the compatibility information, and a tamper-checking code" - this step authenticates the certification of the software, including the script for uninstalling it; i.e., Stefik teaches that a public key was used to decrypt a digital certificate/license, that public key is known by a requester.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention to suggest a method for combining teachings in the disclosures of Krishnan, & Stefik, because this would increase an extra level of security protection by encrypting a known decryption key.

B. Re. to claims 286, 296: The applicants claim a server certificate comprises a first certificate for validating the server. The examiner respectfully submits that on its face, a server certificate already/equivalently defines a certificate for a server.

C. Re. to claims 287, 297: The rationales and reference for rejection of claim 280 are incorporated.

It is obvious that a certificate may comprise a second certificate - it is merely containing an extra document (just integrating another document).

D. Re. to claims 289, 299: The rationales and reference for rejection of claim 280 are incorporated.

It is obvious with Krishnan et al.'s reference that a request may include a version number for a Digital Rights Management (DRM) system on the client computer because this version number is merely a non-functional data descriptive material that does not have an inventive concept since including an extra/specific information in a request only add extra non-functional data; this does not change the claimed step.

Serial Number: 09/482,725

Art Unit 3661

Conclusion

7. Claims 280-299 are not patentable.
